The monor market is without essential change to-day. Money is very abundant, and capitalists are parsied to know where to place their unimployed belances. The cloud of doubt cast upon the national er edit, by the unaccountable vote on General Cobb's resolution to tax the interest on bonds ten per cent, has had a dappening effect upon Government securities. This action of the House, together with the uncertainty connected with the political movements of the country, has had a tendency to frighten the time being the market. The effect of the resolution that have been appeared with them hurriedly, thus weakening, for the time being the market. The effect of the resolutions will be seriously felt for a short time, but those best informed are positive that no such resolution can become a law.

A Chicago fournal in referring to local monetary affairs, says: By some of the banks a better demand for mency is reported, but this is not general, and though there is a positive improvement in that respect over the condition of a menth ago, there was none during the past few days.
